This can be useful in a variety of ways for business development, directly for IRI in its main focus, and including Investor Relations, but also for what could and should be easily a lucrative path for consulting revenues that can assist the Company at any point in time when it may be an appropriate path to pursue, especially in this early stage of financial development.

[1] Bio, Resume, CV

Simply go to <http://mirnova.org/people/martindudziak> and browse. Everything is there, including some samples from mostly recent publications. The basic Bio is concise, whereas the CV is very detailed.

[2] Methods, Styles, Dispositions of Thinking and Working

According to some, I am a very strong polymath thinker, with abilities in both “analysis” (“take things apart and figure it all out why and how”) and “synthesis” (“take a variety of seemingly disconnected and unrelated things and make something useful and synergetically, symbiotically complete and whole out of them”).

I seem to be strong in both “reason and logic” and in “intuition and imagination.” Recently I read an article by a psychologist concerning the mind of “Renaissance thinkers” as a psychological type. I found it to be a very description of how I think and work.

[3] Previous and Current Interesting Activities

MIRNOVA grew out of prior companies, institutes, teaching, research, a variety of investment ventures and interim-executive roles, special consulting tasks, and a large amount of pro-bono work done either as an employee, professor, or simply as an individual. Exploring <http://mirnova.org> will yield information and various “connecting the dots”.

Work as the STEM Advisor for the S.H.A.K.T.I. Warriors Academy project (“SHAKTI” here = Super Heroes Academy for Knowledge Training and Integrity), founded by Lane Jabaay (former Oracle Corp. executive), along with other personal and professional experiences, was very influential and instrumental in developing some of the foundational ideas about OASIS.

Work in the defense and intel sectors, as well as in the years with Silicon Dominion, Intel, and the TetraDyn (Tetrad Group) companies, was particularly influential in the early development of everything concerning IBANK and SELDON.

[4] Extensive International and Multicultural Experience

There are several “roots, trunks and limbs” that have enabled me to achieve a good understanding of how to “connect many dots” and how to communicate with, get along with, and negotiate as manager or collaborator, with quite-diverse personalities and types, regarding individuals and groups as well. I have traveled extensively and lived often in other countries as part of study and work. This has enabled me to be quite comfortable now with all sorts of different environments and lifestyles. All of this contributes to the “IRI mentality” and especially with regard to Games.

I have learned to observe with patience, to ask interesting questions and to make careful comments, all of which helps to gain a better understanding about what is really going on in a situation.
